

Website launches to aid salon woes

A team of online experts and an ex-salon owner have launched www.icomplete.com - a website dedicated to solving communication problems affecting the beauty industry. The site's slogan, 'Be Organised, Be Mobile, Be Everywhere', depicts its mission to help small salons with prime issues such as reception cover, updating client records, no-shows and short notice cancellations. Subscribers will benefit from a host of carefully designed solutions, including an automated call answering service and online diary, so clients can book with ease. The site's business contact management system, to be hosted online, means users won't have to purchase software outright, pay an expensive maintenance contract or worry about the package going out of date. Instead they pay a monthly fee with no fixed contract and the service is continually kept up-to-date at no extra cost. Visit the site for further information.
